DIRECTORS OF CHAMBER MEET

Largely Attended Session Last Night.

Report of Secretary McLean For Past Two Months Most Encouraging—Shows That Good Work Has Been Done by Charter Committee—Several New Enterprises Secured During That Time—Financial Condition of Chamber.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce was held last night, there being a good attendance of the membership. The report of Secretary McLean for the months of August and September was most gratifying and showed that considerable work had been done through the chamber. The financial report was also gratifying. It showed that on October 1 there was something over $613 on hand and as it has been the policy of the chamber to collect dues twice a year in advance and as there are some dues not yet collected the organization will be able to make both ends meet on January 1, 1911.

The directors decided to get out a pamphlet for mailing purposes giving such information as would likely serve in attracting people here to live.

Several matters looking to improved conditions were brought to the attention of the directors and referred to the proper committees for investigation and report.

Several other matters of routine nature were discussed, but the principal business of public interest was the report of the secretary, which is given below:

During the months of August and September the principal work of the chamber was the drafting of the proposed new charter for Greensboro. Your special committee met often, working out the best features from the various cities, which have adopted a commission form of government, best suited to the interests of Greensboro and finally submitted their report to the board of directors which was adopted and upon their recommendations, a meeting of the shareholders of the Chamber of Commerce was called to be held in the county court house. The mayor also called a meeting of the citizens to confer with the members of the Chamber of Commerce and discuss the proposed charter. After three meetings, several changes having been made, the proposed charter was adopted with the recommendations that it be submitted to a vote of the people. Your secretary was instructed to ask the Board of Aldermen to have the proposed charter printed for distribution before the election and I am pleased to report that the board unanimously agreed to have the draft printed.

While there seems to be some objections to a change in our government, I do not believe that it will amount to very much, but believe the election can be carried by a united effort of the members of the chamber.

Greensboro has always set the pace for other towns in the State in educational lines and all advanced steps. The adoption by the citizens of Greensboro of the commission form of government will again place our city in the front as leaders, and no doubt will be followed by other cities throughout the state.

I am pleased to report that the Greensboro Furniture factory is now being operated by Mr. Gottwalds, who moved his machinery here from Washington and who is completing a contract for files for the government at Washington. He has proposals from the government for furnishing 5,500 of these files to be used in the Philippine Islands and is confident of landing this contract.

The locating of the Southern Power company auxiliary steam plant in Greensboro seemed at one time to be promising, but after having correspondence for some time with Mr. Lee, vice president of the Southern Power company, the matter was referred by him to Mr. Z. V. Taylor with power to locate the plant. Mr. Taylor always had an inclination to give Greensboro the preference and it is a matter of gratification that after the claims of Greensboro were presented to him he promptly gave Greensboro this honor. Work has already begun looking for the completion of this large plant and will not only to the taxable values of our city, but will put in circulation considerable money on account of the construction and maintenance of the plant.

There seems to be a better feeling existing in Greensboro today than there has been for some time, which fact speaks well for the people.

The postoffice receipts for the first nine months of 1910 compared with the first nine months of 1909 show an increase of $2,286.06.

GUILFORD FARMERS WON FIRST AND SECOND PRIZES

Messrs. Jule and Arthur Sharpe Carry Off Honors At State Fair.

Mr. Jule H. Sharpe, who took first premium at the Central Carolina Fair last week, carried his agricultural exhibit to Raleigh and carried off the first premium for county exhibit at the State Fair. Mr. Arthur Sharpe, who won the second premium here, was equally as successful at the State Fair. This news will be gratifying to Guilford citizens interested in the advancement of the agricultural industry in the county. The exhibits of the Messrs. Sharpe were admired by thousands while on exhibit at the fair last week and they were viewed by people from all parts of the State this week.

Mr. Jule Sharpe, whose premium here amounted to $200, gets $250 from the State Fair and Mr. Arthur Sharpe, whose premium here was $100, gets $200 from the State association. This makes a total of $750 taken in by two of Guilford's farmers and they have other entries for prizes at the State fair that have not yet been awarded.

Greensboro people who attended the State Fair felt proud of the fact that farmers from this county should make such a fine showing.

Prof. Sneath is a graduate of Yale, to which institution he won a scholarship by his superb singing. He is considered one of the best baritone singers of the country and the Greensboro music loving public is looking forward with much pleasure to his first appearance in the city. The young ladies of the society are to be congratulated on their success in securing these two entertainers and the recital will doubtless be largely attended.

DAVID B. HILL DEAD

Passed Away Suddenly Yesterday At Wolfert's Roost.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 20.—David B. Hill, ex-United States Senator and former Governor of New York, died suddenly today at Wolfert's Roost, his country home.

About two weeks ago Mr. Hill was seized with a bilious attack while at his law office in this city and although his condition was not considered serious at the time, his physicians advised him to remain at home when he recovered. A cold developed and a few days later alarming reports of his condition were circulated.

These reports, however, were denied by friends. In fact, the patient appeared to be improving until last night, when he suffered a sinking spell, which resulted in his death.

AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITS FINE

Of Considerable Educational Value.

All Divisions of Farm Work Represented, Each Division Containing Samples and Explanations—Demonstrations Given to Show the Exhibits Up to Best Possible Advantage—Various Methods of Farming.

Raleigh, Oct. 20.—The part the State Department of Agriculture is taking in the State Fair exhibits this year far surpasses this time its participation any previous year, the exhibits including exhibits from the food division, the division of demonstration and farm institutes, the entomological division, the division of agronomy, the veterinary division, the horticultural division and the division of weed and seed investigation.

For the food division there are some three hundred samples of foods, baking powders, preserves, condiments, vinegars, soft drinks and such, illustrating both adulterated and pure foods. The chemical division shows feed stuffs classified in jars with their values indicated, and analysis of fertilizers in crude and refined form and grouped according to the special plant food they contain. The test farm division shows corn in varieties of representative types and in connection with the soils on which they were grown. Also cotton, wheat and oats and other grains are shown in the same way. The farmer's institute division has maps showing the development of this work in the state, a striking feature being the growth from 17 institutes in 1903 to over 400 in 1910 reaching over fifty thousand people. Also in this department various crop products are shown to illustrate phases and methods of farming. For the entomological division there are charts illustrating in enlarged detail some of the more destructive insects and means of combating them. The division of agronomy shows splendid groups of grains and other products with the soil treatment in growing them. The veterinary department comes in with wall maps setting out the work of trick eradication and treatment of diseases of cattle and stock, and best dairying appliances are shown. Then the horticultural division shows types of scuppernon grapes and native grown peaches. The weed and seed division demonstrates the benefit and methods of seed selection, especially, demonstrations being given as the crowds pass along.

ROBBED AS HE BOARDED TRAIN

Mr. J. O. Colvin Is Touched For $28.60 and a Check For $18.04—Was Getting on Asheville Train When Three Men Rushed Out—In the Confusion His Pocket Was Picked.

Mr. J. O. Colvin, a traveling man, was robbed of $28.60 as he was boarding No. 21, the westbound train from Goldsboro to Asheville, yesterday at about one o'clock. He was carrying a suit case and getting on the train just in front of him were a lady and her little girl.

About the time this trio got into the door of the coach three men came from the inside of the coach hurriedly, saying there was no room within. They almost ran over Mr. Colvin and roughly brushed the lady aside. All this happened in the narrow passage way between the toilet room on one side and the stove and coal box on the other.

In the mix-up Mr. Colvin, who had set his suit case down temporarily, found that the little child was about to be thrown over it. So he stooped down to pick it up. As he did so, he felt some one going into one of his hip pockets in which he was carrying a pouch containing $28.60 and a check for $18.04. When he felt for his purse, he found the pocket turned wrong side out and the pouch gone.

The thing was all done so quickly and such was the crowd and confusion that Mr. Colvin was unable subsequently to identify either of the three men. Several policemen tried to assist him in identifying the men, but the effort was a fruitless one.

The money was in the form of one 20-dollar bill, one 5-dollar bill, two 1-dollar bills, one silver dollar and 60 cents in small change.

Mr. Colvin is in the employ of the H. T. Hackney Coal Company, of Knoxville, Tenn.

Ragout of oysters. Escalloped oysters. Mrs. Wheelless wishes to correct an error in the recipe of the baking powder biscuit. It should be 2 spoonfuls of baking powder instead of one.

STERN-OETTINGER

Pretty Home Wedding Celebrated in Kinston Wednesday Morning.

The following from Wednesday afternoon's Kinston Free Press will be read with interest by a large number of the Greensboro friends of the bride and groom:

One of the most beautiful home weddings that has been celebrated in this city took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Oettinger, at the corner of Bright and Independent streets this morning at nine thirty o'clock, when Mr. Sidney J. Stern, of Greensboro, and Miss Flora Oettinger, of this city, were married. It was a tableau wedding and took place in the handsomely decorated parlors of the home and there were no attendants. A short, but very impressive, Jewish ceremonial rite was conducted by Rev. H. A. Merfeld, of New Bern.

Owing to the serious illness of Mr. Stern's mother, all invitations issued to out of town people were recalled, but there was quite a gathering of Kinston society people to witness the marriage. While Mr. Edwin Oettinger played the march, the bridal couple came into the room and took their places under an arch in front of the minister. The communicating doors were then thrown open and the tableau disclosed to the guests. The beautiful ring ceremony was used.

The guests were received by Mrs. W. D. LaRogue, Jr., and Mrs. H. D. Harper, and Mrs. G. V. Cowper and Mrs. J. M. Parrot presided at the punch bowl. During the ceremony, the pianist softly rendered "Oh Promise Me." The bride was most charmingly gowned in lilac cloth traveling suit, with hat to match, and carried a large bouquet of flowers. After the ceremony the bridal couple, accompanied by many of the guests, went to the N. & S. depot and took the train for Old Point Comfort, to spend a few days, after which they will return to Greensboro to make their home.

No more popular bride has been led to the altar in this city in many years, than Mrs. Stern. She is the daughter of one of the most prominent Jewish families in Eastern Carolina and has a wide circle of friends here and abroad. She has many charming graces, not the least of which is her cordial manner towards people of all classes. She has been a prominent factor in Kinston society and a member of several popular clubs. Mr. Stern is a prominent young attorney of Greensboro, Junior member of the law firm of Stern & Stern, which enjoys a large and lucrative practice in that city. The bridal presents were many and beautiful, and a number of them being sent from other states.

WHERE THE WOMEN RULE.

Picturesque Conditions Among the Beautiful Natives of the Isthmus of Tehuantepec.

Woman dominates the city on the torrid Isthmus of Tehuantepec. Here her rights are recognized and undisputed. The women run the place and do ninety percent of the business. A striking characteristic of these Tehuana beauties is their commercial enterprise. In the market place, where most of the bartering is done, they reign supreme. The wife owns the property, she holds the family purse-strings, and she must even vouch for her husband before he can obtain credit. Not only are the women the power in the district, but they are fully aware of it; they delegate all of the menial work, save the cooking, to the men, and devote their energies to trade, which is so fully in their hands that all commercial transactions in Tehuantepec are done by them or require their sanction. They are Tehuantepec—they in their barbaric colors—treading the earth as if it were theirs, while the little men shamble around with the dogs, the one as degraded as the other.

The greatest power in the entire district is, indeed, a certain old woman who rules the country-side by means of her wealth and shrewdness. Through money-lending she has got many of the people, officials and civilians, into her hands, and is therefore in a position to have her advice accepted and her dictates obeyed. Every important transaction, political or financial, requires her approval; no official could be elected or hold office in the district for a minute unless given her support, illustrious strangers would not dream of crossing the Isthmus without stopping at her plantation to pay their respects; the railway contractors depend on her to keep their turbulent workmen in order, and the President himself is not above seeking her advice. General Diaz has always had a warm spot in his heart for Tehuantepec, very much as you always regard with a certain liking the boy whom you once liked; for many years ago—he was plain Captain Diaz then—he was the commander of the little garrison here and quelled a revolt by clapping all the women into jail. The next morning there were no tortillas and there was no one to prepare them, and, as revolutionists get just as hungry as any one else, the resistance of the disaffected citizens was quickly broken. The story is true, as I happen to know, for the President himself told it to me.—F. Alexander Powell, F. R. G. S., in the November Everybody's.

TWO BILLION DOLLAR DINNER.

Estimates of Fortunes Represented at One Gathering.
Chicago, Oct. 19.—When the foreign steel magnates sat down last night at a dinner in the Blackstone Hotel, as guests of the United States Steel Corporation, a curious person with a talent for research figured that $2,500,000,000 in capital was represented in the gathering.

Besides the foreigners there were more than 100 guests from the American Iron and Steel Institute. Altogether 160 dined.

The house of Morgan was represented by George W. Perkins, and the Steel Trust by President Corey and Chairman Gary. England, France, Germany, Belgium and Austria had multi-millionaires in the company.

The steel corporation officials represented the $1,475,000,000 of capital of that company. Mr. Perkins, as the Morgan representative, easily stood for $500,000,000 of Morgan railways outside of steel. The great steel companies of Europe, which were represented by Baron Von Bonhausen, Essen, Germany; Sir John Randles, Workington, England; Col. Sir Charles Allen, Eddvale, England; Dr. Hugo Van Noot, Assling-Hutte, Austria, made up the balance.

Good results always follow the use of Foley Kidney Pills. They contain just the ingredients necessary to tone, strengthen and regulate the kidneys and bladder, and to cure backache. Sold by Roward Gardner.

GIRAFFE IS 22 FEET TALL

Spotted and Long-Necked Skyscraper Biggest of Its Kind.

Of all the animals of the earth, the giraffe is the oddest. No mention is made of it in the Scriptures, though scientists say it lived many hundreds of years before the flood. Its long neck, they say, is occasioned by centuries of reaching, in an effort to pluck the foliage from the tall trees.

The giraffe has no vocal organs and can utter no sound. It can go longer than a camel without food and water. In fact it prefers at times to go for days without water, getting its moisture from the damp mosses on the trunks of jungle trees. Giraffes are found in the forest belt that hugs the equator in Africa. Hunters have driven them so far into the impenetrable jungle that only occasionally is one found. There is great danger of kill them in trying to capture them, and of those that are shipped the majority die on the sea voyage. So it may be seen why this strange animal is missing from most of the city zoos.

The two tallest giraffes in captivity will be seen in Greensboro on Monday, October 24th, with Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Shows. It will probably be the last opportunity of seeing one of this species, as they are fast disappearing from the face of the earth. The taller of these two giraffes measures twenty-two feet from its front hoofs to its ears. He is a beautifully marked animal and in the pink of health. His companion is equally attractive, though it lacks a foot of being as tall. A good deal of the food these animals require must be imported from Africa.

The star attraction of the big menagerie is Darwin, the missing link. He is a strange animal, so nearly like a human that he is a puzzle to natural scientists. He is probably closely related to the chimpanzee class, though no other of that kind bear such striking resemblance to the human family. He lives in a house with all the appointments of the ordinary home, though, of course, on a somewhat smaller scale. It has electric lights and a small hot-water heater. Darwin drinks milk from a glass and uses a knife and fork quite as readily as a boy or girl.

Another attractive exhibit in the animal department is an elephant which on April 3 celebrated its 24th birthday. Washington was still president of the United States when this animal started in the show business in London. It was then 100 years old. There are thirty-nine more elephants to look at. Among them are the big Indian specimens, the umbrella-eared African beasts and various other varieties.

This is a circus of a thousand wonders. It is filled with novelties which begin to present themselves when the forenoon parade passes through the streets. Here are found camels, zebras, llamas, elephants and deer driven in teams like horses. Among the groups of trained animals are the wonderful Schuman horses from Albert Schuman's German circus. There are also fifteen telephoning elephants brought to America by Dr. Kealey, the animal trainer. There are pigs that shoot the chutes, donkeys that waltz to music and skip the rope, a balloon that is an accomplished jockey, dogs that do many remarkable stunts, and various other kinds of dumb brutes that have been trained to do surprising feats.

A Loss of Memory

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

Up to the age of forty years Peter White had been a hardworking man; then he married the Widow Smith and sat down and communed with himself: "I've almost broken my back with hard work, but now that I've married money I'm going to take things easy. I'll hire some one else to do the work, and I'll do the bossing."

He fondly expected to carry out this program, but he ran up against a stone wall the very first thing.

"You'll not only work as hard as ever, but a good deal harder," was the reply of the wife when he stated his case. "I've got to do it in the house, and you won't get out of it outdoors. The matter is all settled, and we'll say no more about it."

Peter communed some more. As he couldn't force matters, he determined to resort to strategy. He went home from the cornfield one day with a blank face and asked the wife who he was.

"My stars, what do you mean?" she exclaimed after a look at him.

"I was hoeing corn and hustling when something gave way in my head. I can't remember who I am. I can't remember who you are, but it seems as if I had seen you before. What's the matter with me?"

"Good lands, but it must be something awful! Don't you remember that you are Peter White?"

"Yes; it kinder seems that way, and yet I'm all the time wondering if I ain't Sam Johnson. Your name is Schermerhorn, ain't it?"

"Hear the man talk!" she wailed. "Can't you remember that I was the Widow Smith until I married you? We were married only a few weeks ago. Peter, for heaven's sake, don't go out of your head!"

"Smith! Smith!" he mused. "I don't think I ever heard the name before. Mrs. Jackson, can I get supper here?"

"He calls me Jackson! The poor man has had a stroke or something!"

Peter was taken in and cuddled up. Chicken soup and toast were made for him, and the wife milked the cows and fed the hogs. The doctor came and looked at Peter's tongue and heard some of his queer talk and pronounced it a case of loss of memory. He said that some time in the years gone Peter had stood under a tree during a thunderstorm and had been knocked into a cocked hat by a thunderbolt. The real effects of the injury were just coming out.

Peter was to sit in the house or wander around as he liked. After about a month of coddling a slight improvement was noticed. He remembered getting married to some widow or other and was willing to admit that it might be to Mrs. Smith.

Just how long Peter might have worked his little game and continued to grow fat on it cannot be told, but one day when he had gone to the village a pill peddler stopped at the house. He was told of the case, and he did some thinking. He didn't claim that any one brand of his seven kind of pills would restore memory, as many a faker would have done to make a sale. He said that a shock was needed. He had known of five cases in his medical career, and all had been cured by sudden shocks. No little shock for a cent would bring about a restoration. The brain had got all tangled up, and the cords of laziness had got mixed with the cords of memory. He talked to Mrs. White for an hour, and she came to his way of thinking. Peter awoke next morning glad that he was alive and no work before him, but that sudden shock recommended by the pill peddler was not far off. He found himself bound hand and foot, and when he inquired the reason the wife explained.

"I think I have got a cure for your loss of memory. At least I am going to try it. Can you remember this morning what your name is?"

"It's Rammerdinger, ain't it?"

"Yes, pretty near. Can you remember my name?"

"Seems to me it's Dockstader."

"I see your memory is as bad as ever, and we'll try the shock remedy."

Mrs. White was a strapping woman, strong and husky. With one yank Peter was on the floor. He struck mostly on his head. Of course he had something to say, and the reply was:

"Peter, I've got the horsewhip here, and I'm going to lay it on till you can remember back to when Captain Kidd was hung."

The whip was applied. The husband had too soft a snap to throw away, and he held out for a time, but things became hot. He began to call the wife by her right name. She gave him ten more cuts and stopped to ask:

"Peter, who discovered America?"

"Old Columbus," was the prompt answer.

And after ten more cuts, "Who was our first president?"

"George Washington."

"It's working, Peter! It's working! And who are you?"

"White-Pete White."

"And who was I?"

"Emma Smith."

About twenty more vigorous cuts were administered, and then Peter was asked if his memory was clear.

He was sure it was, and within half an hour after the lashings had been cast off he was sawing wood at the kitchen door. Memory had come back to stay.

Of course, when you come to think about it, "off Hatteras" is the very place where one would expect an airship to get wrecked.

Walter Wellman says he is going to try again to fly across the Atlantic Ocean. It's a strange thing that Wellman hopes to achieve so much over the water when he has never done anything much in "flying" over the land.

That's a pretty broad statement that Congressman McKinlay made when he said that every dollar of the billion and seventy million appropriation by Congress was rightly expended. We had never heard before that it was possible to do so much business without the slightest error.

In 1892, according to Congressman McKinlay, the Democrats played both ends against the middle and got into power. He says they are using the same tactics this year. He also quoted with approval Patrick Henry's assertion that the way to judge the future is by the past. Thus in Mr. McKinlay's speech there is distinct ground for hopefulness on the part of the Democrats. They won in 1892 and since they are using the same winning tactics now, why it follows that the future looks promising and logically so. Of course what Mr. McKinlay meant by "playing both ends against the middle" was the Democratic argument that the Republican high tariff injures both the farmer and the worker in the factories.

This week the President spent two days in New York. A dispatch from there says:

To many close observers, probably the most significant feature of the President's stay here is the fact that during the past two days Col. Theodore Roosevelt has been at Oyster Bay—only 32 miles from New York—and so far as known no communication, whatever, passed between him and Mr. Taft.

The fact that no steps were taken by the friends of either the President or the Colonel to bring about a meeting under the opportunities offered by the presence of the President in New York, seems to indicate that further interviews between the two in the near future are most improbable.

It seems impossible of belief that Col. Roosevelt should seek the Presidency again. But nevertheless it remains true that actions speak louder than words. There seems to be a good deal of truth in the following from the Chicago Inter-Ocean:

Alton B. Parkers tries to start a discussion as to whether Mr. Roosevelt is or is not seeking a third-term nomination.

With all respect to Judge Parker, the question is superfluous. To discuss it is to go back to the ash heaps of history. Men's acts are sure signs. Let us consider Mr. Roosevelt's recent acts. What is and is not a fair explanation of them?

Why has Mr. Roosevelt sought to humiliate Mr. Taft, to disgrace Mr. Sherman, to push into the background every Republican leader of a calibre above that of a Bristow or a Beveridge?

Why is Mr. Roosevelt, a private citizen, touring the whole country, doing everything he can think of to keep his personality constantly in the public eye and his name ever on the public lips?

Is Mr. Roosevelt doing this merely to advertise a little weekly periodical down on Fourth avenue, New York City?

The question answers itself to every mind not resolved to be so unfair to Mr. Roosevelt as to set him down offhand as a mere mountebank of the money market.

Of course Mr. Roosevelt will take a third-term nomination if he can get it. Otherwise he is a senseless man, and we protest that nobody of judgment can so regard him.

Mr. Roosevelt's conduct becomes wholly intelligible and consistent and rational only when we put behind it a burning desire and hot ambition to be President again anyhow, and even, if possible, Permanent President.

Congressman McKinlay says that there is nothing the matter with Uncle Sam's paying out 160 millions a year for pensions. But hold! there's two sides to every question. Let's take a look at the other side. The Norfolk Landmark quotes a man more distinguished than Mr. McKinlay and, we believe, not a partisan as Mr. McKinlay is, but an unprejudiced observer:

Dr. William Bayard Hale, the same that had the suppressed interview with the German Emperor and spent a week at the White House as a faunal naturalist observing President Roosevelt, gives his attention in the current issue of the World's work to the abuse of the Federal pension system.

Of course, it will be understood that neither Dr. Hale nor any other sane person, North or South, objects to the payment of pensions in reasonable amount to the right individuals for honorable service. The principle is one generally approved, and the states of the South themselves carry it out so far as their comparatively meagre finances will permit.

But it is a national scandal, and has long been a national scandal, that many millions of dollars are paid annually to people not justly entitled to the money. By the combined scandals of the protective tariff and the pension system the average American has been pillaged for more than forty years for the benefit of a favored and often fraudulent few.

It is remarked at the beginning of the World's Work article that one year after the Civil War the Federal government paid $15,000,000 in pensions; that in 1874 the amount had reached $31,000,000, falling in 1878 to $28,000,000; that by 1881 the total jumped to $50,000,000; that a succession of rises, culminating at a significant time, brought the expenditure to $161,000,000 in 1893, to be reduced by much courage on the part of President Cleveland to $144,000,000. At the present time the pension cost is about $157,000,000, with "more liberal" legislation in prospect if the pension-grabbers and allied politicians can get the bills through Congress.

A number of astonishing instances of the "correction of military records" by "private" pension acts of Congress are given by Dr. Hale, among them being cases of deserters and men with no military records whatever. President Taft vetoed two such private pension bills passed this year, one being to pension a soldier dishonorably discharged and the other to pension a man who never joined his regiment. But it is the exception, and not the rule, when questionable private pension bills are stopped. They usually sail through like this one, described by Dr. Hale.

Morgan, the Man of "Yes" and "No" (From "The Masters of Capital in America," by John Moody and George Kibbe Turner, in McClure's Magazine.)

Old Wall Street men, who remember those days, recall with vividness the new personality that loomed up. The face of the man, compared to the mask which the lines and furrows of thirty years of power have made today, seems curiously soft and gentle. But the wonderful steady eyes were there, and the brusque and dictatorial manner.

"I remember him in the early '80s," says a veteran foreign exchange broker. "He used to do most of his exchange business personally then. I know I had to wait for him when he was out. He sat there in the front of his private office, his head down at his desk, and a big cigar cocked up in the corner of his mouth. When you offered him exchange, if he thought it was too high he'd say, 'No'; nothing more. Never an offer of what he'd give. You'd never know what he thought. Then you'd go out. If you could you'd come back and offer it again, lower. If he thought the price was right, he'd say, 'I'll take it'; nothing more. It was always 'Yes' or 'No'; no other talk at all."

SETTLE REPUDIATES BUTLER.

Raleigh News and Observer.
There is not a man in North Carolina—Democrat or Republican—who will admit that he would be guilty of the moral treason committed by Butler in taking a fee against the State while holding the commission of the State as United States Senator. The Republican spell-binders will denounce Democrats for talking about the bond issue, and will declare there is no Butler issue, but not one has said that he would have done what Butler did.

ler did.
In the preliminary campaign, in which the Duncan forces were routed, Butler and Settle were the leading workers for Morehead, and when Morehead won he said that the chief happiness his victory gave him was the fact that it "brought Settle back into his own." On Tuesday at historic Hillsboro, Governor Glenn and Mr. Settle had a joint debate, and when the question was pressed upon Settle whether, had he been Senator from North Carolina as Butler was, he would have accepted a fee as Butler did in the South Dakota bond matter, Settle declared he would not have done so, thereby repudiating Butler. And yet, though no reputable Republican will admit he would have acted as Butler did, the Republican party in North Carolina today has made Butler its real leader and he is directing the campaign.
Settle repudiates Butler's act.
The voters of North Carolina, aided by Republicans, will repudiate the party that has sunk low enough to accept such leadership.

Mr. Mc Kinlay's Efforts In New Jersey Gratifying To Democrats.
The efforts of Representative Duncan McKinlay of California as a campaigner in New Jersey have been so gratifying to the Democrats that they are hoping that the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee will send into the state more of the stand-patters who have been defeated for Congress.

ANNIVERSARY OF LOCAL Y. W. C. A.

Three Services Will Be Held Sunday In Greensboro Churches—Miss Anna D. Casler, General Secretary For the Carolinas and Virginia, Will Speak At Each Service—Public Invited.

Plans are being made for three interesting meetings to be held next Sunday under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian Association, the first at Westminster Presbyterian church at 3 p. m. to which all the people of South Greensboro are invited; the second at Spring Garden Street Methodist church at 5 p. m., in which the westside churches will unite; and the third at West Market Methodist church, at 8 p. m., which will be a union meeting of the churches in the central part of the city.

The occasion is the first anniversary of the reorganization of the Greensboro association and the speaker will be Miss Anna D. Casler, executive secretary of the association for the Carolinas and Virginia. In this territory there are seven city associations, fifty seven college associations and four in mill villages. Three secretaries give their entire time to the supervision and development of the work in this territory. Miss Casler is not only a woman of superb executive ability but is a forceful and entertaining speaker as well, and her address on the Young Women's Christian Association movement will be well worth hearing.

MOTHER'S VISIT.

The Old Lady Meant Well, but She Got a Severe Shock.

An old fashioned woman from the country recently packed some fried chicken, bread and doughnuts in a market basket and went to see her daughter, who lives in a big city. She was scandalized when the family stayed up till 11 o'clock and decided that she wouldn't tell pa about it when she wrote home next day. "He might think we have fallen into evil ways," she said to herself as she was going off to sleep.

She awoke at her usual time, 4 o'clock, and the house seemed strangely quiet. "Town folks do get lazy," she thought, "and they probably don't get up till 5." She dressed and went downstairs and watched the clock until 6. Not a sound. Then she waited till 6, and at 7, between hunger and alarm, she was almost crazed. "They've been murdered in their beds!" she yelled at 8 o'clock from the front steps. And soon the house was filled with people rushing in to see what had happened.

The family were surprised and indignant when police, market gardeners, newsboys, etc., rushed into their bedrooms and woke them up. And this explains why the old fashioned woman came home that day. "I never expected," she sobbed to pa, "that any girl would talk to her ma as Jane talked to me."—Acheson Globe.

HAWAII'S BIG VOLCANO.

Curious Relics of Lava It Has Left In the Forests.

Hawaii possesses one of the greatest natural wonders of the present day world—a live volcano as high as Vesuvius and twice its diameter.

Kilauea, on the island of Hawaii, stands thirty miles from the sea in a mountain range in which are three dead volcanoes and one partially alive. This last, called Mauna Loa, from time to time sends streams of lava down its slopes. In 1881 three streams burst forth from the sides of this mountain, and one of them came within three-quarters of a mile of Hilo, the chief city of the island. There have been several outbreaks of Kilauea in the last hundred years. In 1840 there was a brilliant eruption of lava, the light of which it was said, could be seen a hundred miles away, while at the distance of forty miles one could read print at midnight.

Where the lava flowed through the forest it has left curious relics in lava arches, bridges and great vases. These vases were formed by the lava piling itself about some lofty tree trunk, burning away the wood within and killing the upper part of the tree. In the course of time seeds were deposited in the open top, filled with decaying bark, until now there is a gigantic lava vase, holding ferns and flowers and vines.—Exchange.

THE HURRY HABIT.

It Is Charged With Being a Breeder of Bad Manners.

"My attention was recently called to an article," observed the retired professor, "in which the writer rebuked us, individually and as a nation, for our lack of manners due to the hurry habit. He classed this habit among the bad, senseless, inexcusable habits, and I fully agree with him. Watch a crowd anywhere, pitching off trains and boats or surging on to them, fighting for first places going up stairs or down, squirming and elbowing to get through a gateway or an open door, and if you were to inquire not one man Jack or woman Marie could tell you why he or she was on the dead jump.

"The average male being will consult his watch, bound across the lawn, run like mad for a car, hire a cab to break the speed law driving to a ferry, dash into his office as if he had done 100 yards in ten seconds, remove his hat and overcoat, open his desk, pull out a slide, cock his feet on it, light a cigar and wonder what he's going to do next.

"The average female being will bore through a fringe of shoppers nine deep to forge to a bargain counter, and after she's arrived she'll calmly put down her purse and parasol, finger the goods for fifteen minutes, ask questions concerning the prices—past, present and future—and move off leisurely without buying so much as a spool of thread."—Providence Journal.

6522 MILES OF ADVERTISING.

Four years ago the Craddock Shoe was unknown outside of Lynchburg, Va., where it is made. Today you'll find it in nearly every town in the south and you'll read a Craddock ad in nearly every Southern newspaper you pick up.

It's truly wonderful how the power of publicity pulls and you will sometimes doubt that power until some instance like the Craddock Shoe success comes along with real figures to prove that advertising pays.

Craddock-Terry Co. make fine shoes—that goes without saying—for a continued success never grew up for a snide article. The instances of meritorious goods becoming the leading brand in their field in four years without advertising are even scarcer.

In speaking of this advertising Mr. Chas. G. Craddock says:

"Over a million people read Craddock shoe ads every week.

"If our advertising were set up in single columns," he said, "and pasted together they would make a strip of paper 6,522 miles long—long enough to reach from New York to New Orleans, New Orleans to San Francisco and from San Francisco back to New Orleans."

"If the space which we will use this year in advertising the Craddock shoe was set up in the ordinary size type by the old hand method of type setting it would take 275,527 men a year to set up the type."

"Advertising," declared Mr. Craddock, "has the same effect upon a merchant's business that fertilizer has upon the soil. It produces growth, large crops and better business."

FOUR PER CENT. PAID ON SAVINGS DEPOSITS.—FOUR PER CENT.

THE DIFFERENCE

between a dollar saved and a dollar spent is just two dollars. Did it ever occur to you that way? It's worth thinking about.

Another difference is the feeling you have afterward. The dollar saved gives you a feeling of real pleasure—it may call for a little sacrifice for the time being, but afterward you feel better for having denied yourself and the dollar is still yours. That is the nice thing about having money in the bank—you have saved it—it is still yours—you can have it when you wish.

We make it a part of our business to urge you to have a bank account at this bank, for it not only helps our business but yours more so.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO.

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

Robert W. Gillie, Arlington Street, Reidsville, N. C., says: "I can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as a splendid remedy for kidney complaint. I was relieved of pains through the small of my back by short use of this remedy. I did not take Doan's Kidney Pills as regularly as I should to have obtained the best results, but I nevertheless found them very beneficial."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

ABSURD FASHIONS.

Hairdressing and Hats In the Time of Marie Antoinette.

Some of the fashions in France during the reign of unfortunate Queen Marie Antoinette were exceedingly absurd, particularly hairdressing and hats, which were trimmed with such an extravagant wealth of feathers that the coaches had to have their seats lowered. According to Mme. Campan, "mothers and husbands murmured, and the general rumor was that the queen would ruin the French ladies."

One day Louis XVI. decided to forbid the court in a body to follow the royal hunt in coaches. In order to be freer he wished only to permit real sportsmen to attend. The noble ladies immediately rebelled, and the Princess of Monaco criticized the decision by means of her headdress, upon which arose a miniature royal coach, followed by two gentlemen on foot in gaiters. On the left of this was displayed a cypress garnished with black tears, the large roots being formed of crape.

More absurd still was the hairdressing of the mother of Louis Philippe, upon whose head every one could admire her son, the Duc de Beaujolais, in the arms of his nurse as well as a parrot pecking at a cherry.

Capt. Bogardus Again Hits the Bull's Eye.

This world famous rifle shot, who holds the championship record of 100 pigeons in 100 consecutive shots is living at Lincoln, Ill. Recently interviewed, he says: "I suffered a long time with kidney and bladder trouble and used several medicines, all of which gave me no relief until I started taking Foley Kidney Pills. Before I used Foley Kidney Pills I had severe backaches and pains in my kidneys with suppression and a cloudy voiding. On arising in the morning I would get dull headaches. Now I have taken three bottles of Foley Kidney Pills and feel 100 per cent better. I am never bothered with my kidneys or bladder and again feel like my own self." Sold by Howard Gardner.

ANOTHER CIGARETTE SHOCK

American Women Smoked at Dinner to Japanese.

New York, October 19.—Shocked expressions and upraised hands were in evidence in anti-cigarette circles here today when the news spread that American women at last night's dinner to the Japanese visitors' society smoked cigarettes with their coffee.

The dinner was given on behalf of Mayor Ozaki, of Tokio, and his wife, and there were a score of Japanese women present as well as a number of American women. The Japanese women, although they smoke at home, did not indulge at the dinner, but several of the American women puffed daintily at their cigarettes.

Mayor Ozaki in a speech pleaded that Japan and America lead the world in a movement for international peace.

A Reliable Medicine—Not a Narcotic.

Get the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package. It is safe and effective. Contains no opiates. Refuse substitutes. Sold by Howard Gardner.

Dr. Francis Clark told an interesting story of a youth living in Maine who was out in the woods one day taking photographs of attractive bits of scenery. He came upon the mouth of a little cavern between the rocks, and he said to himself, "I will see what sort of picture I can get out of that cave," and as it was a dark day he decided to take a "time exposure" instead of a "snapshot." Steadying the camera upon his knee as well as he could at the edge of the cave, he gave the sensitive plate a long, deliberate look at the semidarkness within. Then he continued his tramp through the woods and after a few hours returned to his camp.

Several weeks afterward, when developing his plates, you can imagine his astonishment to see in the picture, in the very center of the cavern, with arched back and bristling fur and within springing distance of the spot where he had balanced his camera, a huge Canada lynx that might easily have destroyed his life. And yet he came and went and saw no signs of danger.—Christian Herald.

Cottolene

is enjoyed by all the family without fear of future disaster

There are two kinds of doughnuts—

There's the lard-laden doughnut that is heavy, soggy and lies like lead in the stomach—that's the old-fashioned kind. Steer clear of it; it's the lard that makes it indigestible, not the cook.

Then there's the crisp, flaky, richly browned doughnut, that almost melts in your mouth, yet without the suspicion of greasiness. This kind is made with Cottolene, a vegetable product that makes food that even a child can digest with ease.

You never knew real doughnut goodness until you try the kind made with Cottolene.

Cottolene is much purer and more wholesome than lard.

Never Sold in Bulk

Cottolene is packed in pails with an air-tight top, to keep it clean, fresh and wholesome, and prevent it from catching dust and absorbing disagreeable odors, such as fish, oil, etc.

WANTED NO FUSS.

Any Old Thing Would Do For Dinner, So She Said.

Mrs. Betsy Baxter was the last person in the world to want anybody to make trouble on her account. When she "dropped in" on Mrs. Doolittle unexpectedly for dinner one day she made her position on this point quite clear. "Don't you go to a mile of bother on my account. Miss Doolittle. You know that I'm a person for whom you can just lay down an extra plate, and set before me anything you happen to have in the house."

"If you just fry a chicken same as you would for your own folks, and make up a pan of your tea biscuits that no one can beat, and open a glass of your currant jelly, and have a dish of your quince preserves, and some of the pound cake you most always have in your cake jar, you do that, and have some piping hot apple fritters with hot maple sirup to go with 'em, and some of your good coffee, and any vegetables you happen to have in the house—I like sweet potatoes the way you fix 'em mightily—but, la, just have anything else you happen to have."

"I'm one that expects an 'is' willing to eat what's set before me, and no questions asked nor fault found when I go visiting. So don't you put yourself out a mite for me. If you have what I've mentioned and anything else you want to have I'll be satisfied. I ain't one that cares very much about what I eat anyhow. As the saying is, 'any old thing' will do for me."—Puck.

COLLEGE TRAINING FOR WOMEN.

President of Smith Says Demand for Graduates is Universal.

Boston Herald.
Rev. Marion Leroy Burton, the new president of Smith College, who begins his duties October 5 and who has just returned from a year's travel abroad, during which he studied European educational institutions at close range, is enthusiastic over the more universal demand for college training for women.

"No one can say how much greater Abraham Lincoln would have been had he had the advantages of a college education," said President Burton. "The college graduate goes forth fully equipped for life's tasks; the non-graduate only partly so."

"I think people are beginning to understand values in education; they are beginning to think more seriously about the necessity of giving their sons and daughters a college education."

"Even today we owe much to the college girl that has been. Those who have grown up, left college, gone out into the world and later become mothers are largely responsible for the importance that the colleges of the present day place upon the value of physical training allied with study courses."

"I believe in this modern age every boy and girl should be trained for college. It is a fallacy to assert that in many instances valuable time is lost in college. That is not and never can be true."

"While it sometimes happens that a young man or woman in college gains very little by his or her collegiate work, there is a probability that such youths and girls would have been equally as unbenefited had he or she as a non-graduate gone into business. On the other hand, the college student who applies himself while in college is undoubtedly far in advance of the non-graduate who has gone to work directly from the high school or the academy."

"The women of foreign lands are realizing more and more the value of a college training, and in common with college women everywhere are progressing in the desire for better physical training, realizing that with good health comes the power to work mentally. The women, on the other side, have their college sports just as the girls and boys are trained for college from very early youth, while abroad a college course is more of the nature of an event."

President Burton declares that, while his inaugural address next October will contain his viewpoint on education here and abroad, he will not indicate his idea of the way to manage Smith College at that time, nor will he announce any proposed changes in its management for a considerable time.

He is one of the youngest college presidents in the world.

This is quoted from a letter of M. Stockwell, Hannibal, Mo. "I recently used Foley's Honey and Tar for the first time. To say I am pleased does not half express my feelings. It beats all the remedies I ever used. I contracted a bad cold and was threatened with pneumonia. The first dose gave great relief and one bottle completely cured me." Contains no opiates.
